

To whom it may concern;

I am sending this to tell you that I support everything on XM radio. I live in the far northern part of California. Our choices of radio stations here is very, very limited. Not being of the type who listens to Rush Limbaugh or country music, I have always wished I had another choice in radio. Now I have XM radio. I could not be happier! I don't watch television, and local news I don't get on the radio, I get from the local newspaper. I pay for this service, just as most people in my area pay for cable television. And I have never yet had a problem with XM radio as I have heard some say on local radio stations (that I listen to in my car while driving to work). I think those commercials about satellite radio are silly anyway. And as far as the National Association of Broadcasters dictating what I should listen to in my home on my radio, I think that's silly also.

Thank you for your time,
Jane Russell
